international action network on small arms

IANSA

The International Action Network on Small Arms is the global movement against gun violence - a network of more than 500 civil society organisations working in 100 countries to stop the proliferation and misuse of small arms and light weapons. IANSA seeks to reduce the impact of small arms by fostering collaborative advocacy, promoting the development of regional and thematic networks, supporting capacity building and raising awareness.

INTERNATIONAL ALERT

International Alert is a UK-based non-governmental organization committed to the just and peaceful transformation of violent conflicts. IA seeks to identify and address the root causes of conflict and to contribute to the creation of sustainable peace by working with partner organisations in order to influence policies and practices at local, national, regional and global levels. IA's Security and Peacebuilding Programme works on security sector reform and the need for restraint and transparency with regard to the transfer and use of small arms.

SAFERWORLD

Saferworld is an independent non-governmental organisation working to identify, develop and publicise more effective approaches to tackling and preventing armed conflict. Saferworld's Arms Programme, initiated in 1991, aims to foster greater international restraint over transfers of arms – from light weapons to major conventional weaponry – and dual-use goods. At the same time, Saferworld aims to work with governments and non-government groups on the ground in regions of conflict in order to better control flows of, and reduce demand for, arms.

UNIVERSITY OF BRADFORD

The Centre for International Co-operation and Security (CICS) is a centre for academic and applied research with extensive expertise in small arms and related issues. It is based at the Department of Peace Studies at the University of Bradford, which is internationally recognised as a leading research and teaching centre in the areas of peace and conflict studies.

IMPLEMENTING THE PROGRAMME OF ACTION 2003 ACTION BY STATES AND CIVIL SOCIETY

This publication has been produced for the International Action Network on Small Arms (IANSA) by the Biting the Bullet project, which comprises Bradford University, International Alert and Saferworld. It was written primarily by the following members of the Biting the Bullet team:

Owen Greene, Bradford University, Department of Peace Studies

Mike Bourne, Bradford University, Department of Peace Studies

Valerie Yankey, IANSA

Michael Page, International Alert

Helena Vázquez, International Alert

Charlotte Watson, International Alert

Stephanie Cooper, International Alert

Henry Smith, Saferworld

Helen Hughes, Saferworld

Catherine Flew, Saferworld

The Biting the Bullet team, who are solely responsible for the contents of this publication, wish to express their sincere thanks to the following individuals and organisations who have contributed invaluable research, support and advice to the project. We have been fortunate to benefit from the experience, knowledge and commitment of people working to combat the proliferation and misuse of SALW around the world. We would like to apologise sincerely to those who we have failed to thank in the list of acknowledgements on pages 2 and 3. The countries listed next to each name indicate where the person or organisation is based.
